WATCH THE SEASONS

It would be wise for home and industry owners to inquire from responsible sources exactly what seasons of the year and weather conditions bring, in their localities, the greatest fire hazard.

A strong wind, a decisive drop in humidity, a long dry spell—any may be nature's fire warning. Yet it is an unfortunate fact that most of us, in the matter of fire, make a habit of locking the stable door long after the horse has been stolen.

There is no royal road to fire prevention, nor is there any mystery about it. It is simply a matter of commonsense plus application of ordinary knowledge. Little reflection is necessary to show that to accumulate rubbish to court disaster. That such reflection is rarely given the fire problem is shown by the fact that our annual waste reaches the tragic total of $500,000,000 and 10,000 lives. During 1930, fire losses were greater than for several preceding years. The least we can do is to do our part, as individuals, to make 1931, as far as possible, a "fireless year."

NEED BETTER LAWS, NOT MORE LAWS

This country is surfeited with laws. There are so many statutes that it is utterly impossible for the average citizen to be conversant with them, even superficially. This superfluity of statutory law tends to lower general respect for law. It should be the purpose of all legislative bodies to keep down to the minimum the number of legislative enactments.

Fewer laws, and laws of better quality, is the supreme need of the hour throughout the nation, says the Pasadena Star-News.

"There seems to be a widespread belief that you can restore prosperity from the public treasury. It is not only a false theory, but a vicious theory,"—Senator Borah of Idaho.

Low Cost Insurance Policies Now Available To All Ex-Service Men

Of vital interest to every ex-service man, the following letter from Lester Denston, department service officer of the American Legion is published by request of local Legion officials:

All honorably discharged World War veterans who can pass a physical examination are entitled to take out government converted insurance in any one of the six different types of policies ordinarily issued by private insurance companies. This applies to the veteran who did not carry insurance during the war.

There are many reasons why the government insurance should be an inducement to World War veterans.

1. Insurance is issued at a not cost rate—no profit or salesman's commission involved in your premium.
2. Total permanent disability clause free of charge.
3. Cash loan value and extended insurance values available after one year.
4. No restrictions as to travel, oc-designation of beneficiary.

5. Proceeds of government insurance are not subject to claims of creditors of the insured or creditors of the beneficiary.

6. Insurance benefits are also exempt from all taxation.

7. It is anticipated that $900,000,000 will be distributed in 1931 on dividends that in 1930. This will make approximately $3,200,000 apportioned for dividends in this year.

It is urged that every ex-service man interested in government insurance write at once for information forms which may be secured direct from the United States Veterans Bureau, Illinois, Ill., or from the Veterans Bureau, 330 South Wells street, Chicago, Ill.

We'll leave it to you if there is anything prettier than a Cardinal's song at this time of year.

One of these days you are going to see a scramble to buy. Deliveries will be delayed. Demand will exceed supply. Then you'll pay a premium for everything you'll need. Right now is the time to buy the things you actually need.

How to play Bridge AUCTION or CONTRACT
by Wynne Ferguson
Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright, 1930, by Hoyt, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 8

An indication of the great popularity of auction and the hold it has on the public fancy, is the fact that the merchants of the country are now making use of interesting hands to advertise their products.

The following hands are recommended as examples. They were given as problems in the preceding article:

Solution to Problem No. 3

Hearts—K, 7, 5	Hearts—8, 4, 2
Clubs—Q, 7, 6	Clubs—4
Diamonds—Q, 3	Diamonds—K, J, 8, 6
Spades—A, K, Q, 3	Spades—J, 8, 7, 4, 2
Z
Hearts—Q, J, 10, 6
Clubs—A, J, 10
Diamonds—A, 10, 7, 2
Spades—9, 5

AUCTION BIDDING:

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one no trump and all passed. If A opened the five of clubs, how can Z score a small slam against any defense?

CONTRACT BIDDING:

Z one no trump. A pass. Y three spades. B pass. Z should now bid three no trumps. A should pass and Y, with a very strong hand, should bid six no trumps. How can Z be made?

Solution: Z should win the first trick in his own hand and lead the queen of hearts. A should cover and Y should win the trick with the ace. Z should now lead three rounds of hearts, winning the fifth trick in his own hand. B should discard a low spade. At the sixth trick Z should lead the deuce of diamonds and play the queen from Y's hand. B should win this trick and his best play is a spade. Y should win this trick and lead the three of diamonds. B should now play low. Z the ten and A and B is forced to discard the ace of clubs and B is forced to discard. He cannot discard a diamond or Z's diamonds are good. He cannot discard another spade or Y's spades are good, so that either way Y must win the balance of the tricks. It is a very pretty little problem, so work it out for the experience.

Solution to Problem No. 4

Hearts—7, 6	Hearts—A, 10, 3, 2
Clubs—A, J, 6, 4	Clubs—8
Diamonds—A, 10, 7, 4, 2	Diamonds—Q, 6
Spades—10, 6	Spades—A, 9, 8, 4, 3, 3
Z
Hearts—K, Q, J, 9, 8, 5
Clubs—K, Q, J
Diamonds—K
Spades—Q, J, 5

AUCTION BIDDING:

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one no trump. A pass. Y bid four diamonds and B bid two spades. Z bid three hearts and all passed. A opened the king of spades, which held the trick. He continued with the seven of spades. B won this trick with the ace and the problem is to pick out B's correct lead at the third trick and the reason for it.

CONTRACT BIDDING:

Z, as dealer, should bid one heart. A should pass. Y should bid two diamonds and B should bid two spades. Z should bid three hearts. A should pass and Y should bid four hearts. B should pass, for a double would locate the heart strength. The play is the same as at auction.

Solution: B's best play is a low trump. If he leads a spade and A is unable to overtrump the dummy, the location of the ten of hearts, the only missing card, will be known to be in B's hand, and when Y obtains the lead, Y Z can score game by leading against B. On the other hand, the trump lead does not give any information and the location of the ten of hearts is still unknown. This problem, of course, is based on the fact that Z has not seen the hands of A and B.

Solution to Problem No. 5

Hearts—J, 10, 4, 3	Y
Clubs—Q, J, 10	B
Diamonds—10, 9, 7, 2
Spades—A, 10, 9	Z

AUCTION BIDDING:

No score, first game. Z dealt; bid one no trump and all passed. What is A's proper opening lead?

CONTRACT BIDDING is the same. Solution: A's proper lead is the ten of hearts. The long suit opening is the logical one and one that cannot hurt A's hand. The player who held this hand in actual play led the queen of clubs and defended the play on the ground that the lead of the heart would probably lose a trick. Don't ever make short openings against a no trump bid unless your partner has bid the short suit you decide to open. Your long suit always is the proper opening when your partner hasn't bid.

BY PHILIP T. BOHL
LINCOLN AND WASHINGTON

During the passing of February, we have commemorated the birth and lives of two foremost Americans, Abraham Lincoln and George Washington. The glory of these lives seems to have an over-increasing halo. The afterglow of esteem has been of longer duration than the number of years they lived.

These two men who hold the highest places of honor of any of the fair sons of our land are in some respects alike, while in other respects they are vastly different. In similarity, both were elected to the presidency, the highest office of our nation. Washington has been called "The Father of Our Country," and Lincoln, "The Saviour of Our Country." Both were called to lead a cause in behalf of oppressed peoples. Washington led the colonists in rebellion against the oppression and exploitation of England, while Lincoln led the country in rebellion against the enslavement of a helpless race of mankind by another race which considered itself superior. Both of these men were Christians, men of prayer. Both believed in the power of right, and that right made might, rather than that might made right. Their convictions were borne out in each case.

Their differences are more conspicuous than their marks of similarity. Washington was born in wealth and felt heir to large amounts of property. Lincoln was born in extreme poverty, and so far as we know never felt heir to any possessions worth mentioning. Lincoln became great in spite of the handicap of poverty, while Washington achieved fame in spite of the circumstances of riches. Washington had all the educational advantages of his day, while Lincoln's opportunities for education were very meager. Lincoln's beginning was in the humblest surroundings, while Washington's was in the best of that time. Lincoln possessed nothing which could give him political pull, while Washington's opportunities in this respect were greater.

Both were great men. They are not great because they became presidents.

of the United States; the nation gave them its highest office of honor and authority because of their greatness. Some of the evidences of their fame are easily noticeable. One of the unfading tests of eminence is the length of time a man is remembered after he is gone, usually the worth of a truly great man is not recognized until after his death. Another evidence is the places of leadership and responsibility which are entrusted to him. The convictions he holds, is another sign of greatness. Both Washington and Lincoln were moved by a conviction of the wrongness of existing conditions and gave their lives to correct these wrongs. They were great because of the unselfish motives which prompted their actions, and because of the price they each paid in standing by their convictions. Their greatness is also evidenced by the character of the friendships they had, as the character of a man's friends is the index to his own character, so also is the character of his enemies. It is doubtful if any of us can fully realize the contributions which these great men made to our nation and how much we have benefitted by them.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Mind" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ Scientist, on Sunday, February 22.
The Golden Text was, "The earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea" (Isaiah 11:9).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Tell ye, and bring them near; yea, let them take counsel together: who hath declared this from ancient time? who hath told it from that time? have not I the Lord? and there is no God else beside me; a just God and a Saviour: there is none beside me. Look unto me and be saved, all the ends of the earth" (Isaiah 45:21-22).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook: "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Science reveals only one Mind, and this one shining by its own light, and governing the universe, including man, in perfect harmony" (p. 610).

More important than keeping your teeth clean is keeping your teeth. Some dentifrices clean your teeth but contribute nothing to their preservation. Rexall Milk of Magnesia Tooth Paste, on the other hand, not only beautifies your teeth by removing disfiguring stains, but also tends to lessen tooth decay by neutralizing the acids that cause it. THE INDIVIDUAL AND HIS BANK

By ROME C. STEPHENSON

BANKERS recognize that their business carries especially heavy public responsibilities and welcome all sound measures to aid them meet the duties this imposes. Unceasing efforts to bring about continually improving methods to safeguard depositors in banks of all kinds have long been prominent in the plans of bankers, or, at least, in the plans of the nation. They are not the outgrowth merely of the past year of business adversity, but have been carried on actively for many years and have resulted in great progress along lines of better, safer banking methods. Although banking along with all business has suffered reverses, conditions in this field have been far less severe than they would have been had not bankers been widely successful in their endeavors to develop the high standards of banking that now generally prevail.

R. C. STEPHENSON

The American Bankers Association and bankers' organizations in every state actively support the principle of government supervision of banks. The national banks, which receive their charters to do business from the federal government, are under the supervision of the Comptroller of the Currency at Washington. Through his efficient staffs of expert bank examiners in every section he has the duty and power to keep watch of the way every national bank is being conducted, to suggest desirable changes in its policies or methods and even to step in and take control for the protection of the depositors if such action is warranted. The state banks, also, which are chartered by the various state governments, are subject to similar supervision and control by state bank officials. In addition banks in many places have long maintained voluntary clearing house associations which enforce even closer supervision over their members.

Bankers Favor Public Supervision
Present laws adequately enforced contain ample provisions for government supervision. Bankers universally believe in strong, capable banking departments manned by officials with the discretion and courage to enforce these laws and act under them as the common welfare demands. They believe that these public officials should be paid sufficient salaries to command the services of men of character, ability and a resolute spirit of public service. They believe also that the banking departments should be kept free from all political or other special influence in order to be able to act at all times with single-minded independence solely for the benefit of the public interest.

Although banks in the United States operating under state or national charters are thus subject to supervision of public authority, they are strictly private business enterprises. They are owned by their stockholders and administered by officials chosen through the boards of directors which their stockholders elect. No bank is owned or operated by the United States Government, nor, with one small exception in a western state, by any state government. The function of government in banking is to promote and enforce careful banking administration through the system of examination and supervision which I have described. This, however, does not relieve the individual depositor from the necessity of judging and choosing carefully as to his banking relations, just as in his other business or professional relations. He must inquire for himself into the character and type of institution and man he shall do business with, satisfying himself as to their reputation, reliability and capability. These qualities are essential to complete the element of safety and dependability in any human institution.

An Illusory Law

The bank deposit guaranty law in any form is a snare and a delusion, declares a banker in a state where it has been tried, adding: "It is a license and encouragement to irresponsible banks and banking and penalizes capital solvency and prudent banking. It creates a sense of security in the minds of the unthinking and uninformed that is false and impossible to be realized on ultimately. To compare it to legitimate insurance is without reason and absurd. It jeopardizes the solvency of all banks and the safety of all depositors for the theoretical safety of a few. Guaranty schemes always have been, are and always will be impotent, futile and disastrous. It is not new. Has been tried, failed and discarded at intervals for more than 100 years in this country. No well-informed, honest and intelligent mind can accept it in principle or practice. Competent bank supervision and restriction of banks to territory that will warrant sufficient capital investment and accounts is the only sane and honest course and will afford all the guaranty the depositing public is entitled to as compared with all other human affairs."

SCOUT ANTIOCH LIGHT-WEIGHT SCOUTS ARE CHAMPIONS

Rivalry Now Running High Among Troops in Central Division

With Troop 31, Antioch, undisputed champion among the lightweight Scout teams—teams of players 110 pounds and under—in the northwest section as a result of its win over Troop 61, Winthrop Harbor, Saturday evening; and Troop 11, Waukegan, practically clinching first place in the south division by its victories in the January games, interest among the lightweight teams is now centered on the outcome of the remaining games in the central division.

(Troop)	W	L	Pct.
5, West School	4	1	.800
3, First M. E. Church	3	1	.750
10, St. John's Church	3	1	.750

15, Presbyterian Church	1	2	.333
2, Baptist Church	1	4	.200

Four teams still remain in the running with but one loss sustained by each, and any one of these teams has a chance to come out in first place. The winner may be decided Saturday, February 25, when Troop 5 will play Troop 10. Troop 3 and 16 each have difficult schedules and meet each other in the closing game of the central division, March 14.

St. Anastasia, Troop 18, was defeated by Troop 3, 21-13 at the Waukegan Y. M. C. A. Saturday. In the other games of the day, Troop 5 noised out Troop 16 at the North school gym, by the score of 12-9; Troop 15 won a game from Troop 2, in which little scoring was done on either side. The remaining game was played at the Waukegan Y. M. C. A.; Troop 10, St. John's church, swamped

A "Breathing" Battery Operates Newest Radio for Unwired Homes

A new and radically different kind of battery operated radio receiver, requiring no storage battery and free from the defects of the dry battery set, has made its appearance on the market for use in unwired homes.

A number of the country's leading radio manufacturers are producing the new sets, which derive "A" current from a revolutionary type of "breathing battery" which literally breathes the life giving oxygen from the air to maintain constant voltage over a long period. So efficiently does the battery "breathe" that it will run a seven-tube set using the new two-volt tubes for well over a year, based on an average daily use of three hours, after which it is discarded and another one purchased. Operating cost is actually cheaper than with the old type dry cell sets.

The new "air cell" sets—so called because of the "breathing" air cell battery it utilizes—are considered the final solution to the problem of satisfactory radio reception in the millions of unwired homes in rural sections. Broadcasters believe it will eventually increase the radio audience by approximately 8,000,000. This is based on the fact that four of the six million farm families in the country have not yet purchased radio receivers because, heretofore there has been no receiver which gave satisfaction in unwired homes.

FORD COMFORT

Every new Ford is equipped with four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers

ONE of the fine things about driving the new Ford is the way it takes you over the miles without strain or fatigue. No matter how long the trip, you know it will bring you safely, quickly, comfortably to the journey's end.

The seats are generously wide, deeply cushioned and carefully designed to conform to the curves of the body. Every new Ford has specially designed springs and four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers. These work both ways — up and down. They absorb the force of road shocks and also provide a cushion against the rebound of the springs.

Other features that make the new Ford a value far above the price are the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, silent, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, more than twenty ball and roller bearings, extensive use of fine steel forgings, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, torque-tube drive, Rustless Steel and unusual accuracy in manufacturing.

In addition, you save many dollars because of the low first cost of the new Ford, low cost of operation and up-keep, and low yearly depreciation.

Discourage The Shiny Optimism Of Your Nose

Proper Cleansing and Right Foundation for Powder Combats that Shine

That big bear—a shiny nose! What feminine heart does not contract with horror at the thought? You have experienced it, perhaps frequently, or only occasionally. Some of those reflecting noses misbehave only after application of the puff has been neglected for a few hours; others seem to be chronically rambunctious, and it is these that must be considered.

A few of these imitation mirrors have a hard, brilliant pink glittering to which powder simply won't cling.
Such little noses should be treated to an oil or cream massage, as the natural oil is lacking. If lotions were substituted entirely for soap and water cleansing for a time, the pores would be given a chance to collect some natural oil.

Far more numerous, however, are these shiny counterpieces due to an oily skin. After cleansing your skin thoroughly with cleansing cream, wash your face with warm water and a pure, mild soap. Then tighten your pores with a mild astringent before applying foundation cream, powder, and rouge. A good astringent will tighten up your skin and prevent too much oil coming out on your face to spoil the lovely smooth effect for which you are striving.

Besides this external treatment, oily skins usually require some definite treatment from the inside. Incorrect diet has much to do with oily skins, and as a rule cutting down on sweets and starches will help to cure this condition. I would not advise you to begin a strenuous diet without first consulting your doctor, but you can safely use a little care in selecting your food.

Interest To WOMEN

ROADWAY has gone in for
"sweet snacks" since a learned writer discovered what a lot of "sweets" could be obtained from a "piece of candy." But it is to Fannie Brice to find the sweet way to absorb her "annoy." Yes, she's munching a lump sugar.

TWAS BRILLIC AND THE SLITHY TOVES—

veal to Child the Magic Which Lies in Poetry and the Classics

What mystery lies in those words that allure, and yet what nonsense!
Twas Brillic—! What was brillic, what does brillic mean? Instantly mind is carried away, wondering this. To some, it might express the et awakening of heart; others might waves tossing wildly; while another may see simply a concoction of "silly words." And the slithy toves?
Nonsense, carlie in the mind, fantasy, illogical, yet how satisfying that in us which craves mystical wholesome adventures.

Soul-Food Needed.
It is lamentable to think of the little children whose imagination have never been stimulated by poetry, whose parents were untrained, having no conception of the pleasure of letters, knowing nothing of beauty of combined words and rhyme. The souls of the children destined in many instances to be starved without realizing it.

Many fine selections are studied in the schools, after the child has advanced sufficiently, but every precious year that slips away takes something from his power of imagination.
Attracted by sounds.

When the future American citizen is still grasping eagerly at each new word in the time to start giving him poetry. Even before he has started to school, he may be taught to recite lines from Lewis Carroll, "Alice in Wonderland"—which masterpiece ought to be a part of every child's heritage. He will delight in the queer sounds, the nonsense, the pure rhythm and when he has mastered them, will radiate glow.

Combats Wrong Influences.
If you do not shut your child out, if you share with him your interesting tasks and ideas, he will be much more immune to the outside influences which so often wreck havoc in teaching him proper habits.

To counterbalance these effects, you must gain the confidence of your child—and how more easily than by lending yourself wholeheartedly to learning a poem with him, and telling him interesting facts about the life of the author, and the circumstances under which the particular selection was written?

Have you noticed how a young mind revels in rollicking, rhythmic poems, with beauty of word and meter, as Poe's "Annabelle Lee" or some of Longfellow's simpler poems? He may not then understand them all, but his mind will be intrigued with the sound, and with the sense of learning them, he will be thankful and proud of his acquaintance with them, even though they may not be all retained in his memory.

Develops Understanding.
As his mind develops, it requires more difficult selections. "Thanatopsia," which has no definite rhyme, or parts of the modern Sanberg's "Good-Morning, America," would be stimulating, not only to his mind, but also in his perceptions.

Children naturally turn to stories, rather than to poetry, and guidance

Household Hints

and understanding in the realm of poetry should not be neglected. He will love to take you with him on that wild ride of imagination, or through strange adventures with Aladdin.

Are You His Companion?
Time and perseverance are required.
Many times, no doubt, you will have need to consult your books for details in regard to the poet or author's life; or in choosing poems at the proper time of adventure, travel, inspiration, as from Kipling. You will derive benefit by increasing your own knowledge, making yourself a more interesting companion to your friends and family, and keeping abreast with your children.

Can you travel through the mountains of Transylvania with all the little children, and the rats—oh, so many rats, of all ages, sizes and descriptions—dancing to the music of the Pied Piper of Hamelin?

Lenten Recipes Offer Variety For Home Menus

One of the signs of a good cook is her ability to keep appetites alert; and the advent of Lent, with its opportunity to feature a variety of fish courses, gives many a housewife the chance to establish a new reputation for cookery.

For any evening party, halibut is a king in both unusual and delightful.
Creamed tuna fish on toast is a dish that the children especially will welcome, and it gives mother a splendid opportunity, too, for introducing more milk into their diet.

Halibut a la King.
Boiled halibut upon toast, and cover with the following sauce: Melt 3 tablespoons butter; fry in it 1 cup fresh mushrooms, broken in pieces, or canned button mushrooms, sliced lengthwise. Add 4 tablespoons flour and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Stir until frothy, add 2 cups rich milk, and stir until the sauce boils. Set over hot water.
Cream 2 tablespoons butter, add beaten yolks of 2 eggs, 1/4 teaspoon onion juice, 1 teaspoon pure cider vinegar.
Arrange mounds of finely flaked 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, and 1/2 teaspoon paprika, and stir into the hot mixture. Continue stirring until the eggs are set, then add 1/4 cup chopped stuffed Spanish olives. Pour sauce over fish and serve.

Creamed Tuna Fish on Toast.
Melt 2 tablespoons butter, add 2 level tablespoons flour and stir until well blended. Add 1 cup milk and stir constantly until thickened. Season with 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons tomato catsup, and a dash of pepper.
Add 1 cup flaked tuna fish and serve on buttered toast.

Savory Sardines.
1/4 cup butter
3 tablespoons boiling water
1/2 tablespoon lemon juice
A little prepared mustard
2 egg yolks
1/4 teaspoon salt

Divide the butter into three pieces, put one piece of it with the egg yolk and lemon juice over hot water. Stir until butter melts and mixture is blended. Add another third and when it is melted add the remainder, then slowly add the boiling water and seasonings. Cook over hot water until thick, stirring constantly. Arrange a large can of sardines on strips of thin crisp toast and place in a hot oven or grill for two or three minutes. Spread with a teaspoon of this sauce and serve at once.

Vogue For Canape Grows

Appetizing Newcomer on Party Food List Is Boon to Hostess

THE canape is one of the newcomers on the party food list, but it is already extremely popular and very chic. It is attractive in appearance and appetizing in flavor, and it has made entertaining much easier. To the smart hostess it is as necessary as the after-dinner bowl of fruit.

For tea or for evening refreshments there is nothing smarter than a tray of canapes of various shapes and garnishes. For a first course at lunch or dinner a canape is again correct, and convenient; it can be arranged and placed before the guests arrive.

For a first course a fruit canape is sometimes chosen. A ring of sliced bananas is arranged around the edge of a round of bread which has been spread with cream cheese.
In the center are heaped minced dates mixed with mayonnaise. The canape is placed on a lettuce leaf with mayonnaise as a garnish.
Sometimes a slice of pineapple is used instead of the bread.

For canapes which are to be eaten with the fingers either bread plain or toasted on one side is used.
It is usually spread with a flavored butter—anchovy, garlic, deviled ham, horseradish, mustard or cheese are among the savory materials which mix well with butter.
Caviar, garnishes are then made from combinations of pineapples, green pepper, ripe and green olives, egg yolks and whites. Tiny pickled celery and capers can also be used.
All kinds of interesting effects are possible by varying the arrangements of these "garnishes." Your tray of canapes can be a really lovely picture, and they will taste just as good as they look.

Variations of Foundation Butter ney for 2 tablespoons butter.

mento to 4 tablespoons butter.

spoon horseradish to 3 tablespoons

TOPPY'S TRAVELS

Synopsis: Topsy leaves home to follow his canary. After many adventures, he escapes from his enemies, the Pillows. His friends, Mr. Frog and Toy, the dewdrop, go to another land to arrange for the Cushions to fight the Pillows. Thus they hope to rescue the Cloud-Queen, whose land is invaded by the Pillows. Topsy learns they are being successful, and that the Pillow-Queen is already calling for soldiers. Topsy is disadvised. Continue.

The three guards who had left the garden, now turned and rushed toward Topsy to capture him, but he waved his sword so fiercely that they backed into the garden.

The boy stepped into the gateway and challenged the soldiers. "Try and take me, if you dare."
There was room for but one soldier to pass through the gateway, and as each one advanced, Topsy threatened him with his sword and waved it in his face until he retreated into the garden. For a time Topsy kept them back, and blessed the clouds for building high stone walls about the garden.
The Clouds could float and jump higher than their enemies at night, although they were more helpless during the day. The Pillow guards could not escape from the garden, as there was only one gateway. Topsy knew that he would soon become exhausted and be captured, but he continued to repulse each Pillow who approached him.

At length the leader of the group who had been talking to the soldiers walked toward the boy. "Time is flying," he called to his men. "The Queen will be needing us. We will have to charge."

The warriors hesitated, knowing full well that some would be slain.
Topsy took advantage of their fear, saying, "If you all promise to leave the garden and not come back, or attempt to capture me, I will allow you to pass through without hurting any of you."

Just as he was about to give the final order, an unearthly yell was heard from the opposite direction.
Topsy recognized it as Mr. Frog, and was filled with new strength. Mr.
Frog was not in the garden, but the Pillows did not know that, and turning they stampeded to the other end.
As soon as he was left alone, Mr.
Frog appeared at Topsy's side, and said quickly, "Follow me, and hurry.
Hit anyone who may try to stop us."

They fled from the garden into the Palace. As before, Topsy followed blindly, not knowing whether he was bound. They turned corner after corner, and stopped for nothing. Topsy was surprised to find so few guards in the hall of the Palace. Most of them were in the garden, or had been, for, looking backwards, he saw that he and Mr. Frog were being pursued, and that the Pillow soldiers were gaining. Three times a stray guard attempted to stop them, but Topsy thrust his sword before him and did not pause.

Topsy was breathless when they halted at last before a locked door.
The lad's hungry eyes widened in delight, for there was more food lying by the door.

"This is the secret room," Mr. Frog gasped. "There is no time to be lost.
Where is the key?"

Topsy fumbled in his clothes, while he admired Mr. Frog's wisdom. Just as the pursuing Pillows rounded the corner and dashed toward them, Top-py found the key, unlocked the door, gathered up the food and tumbled into the room.

CRYSTAL THEATRE

An unusual comedy drama will be seen at the Crystal next Tuesday night when J. D. Rotneur and company present the play, "Nancy Gets a Break." Loads of fun in this play, J. D. says, so come prepared to laugh at the comic antics of Billy, the comedian, and the ludicrous situations developed during the progress of the play.

There will be the usual high class vaudeville specialties between the acts by Billy, the Twins, Tom Brown, and others.

The Rotneur Players continue to draw packed houses to the Crystal every Tuesday night.

KENOSHA THEATRE

The Kenosha Theatre will present Thursday, Friday and Saturday Ronald Colman's latest talking picture, said to be in a vein new to the star, which bears the title, "The Devil to Pay." It is an original screen story and dialogue by the famous English dramatist, Frederick Lonsdale, well-known on this side of the Atlantic for his numerous stage successes. Though several of the Lonsdale pieces have been adapted to the screen, "The Devil to Pay" is his first attempt at writing directly for screen production.

DISTRICT TOURNEY AT WAUKEGAN NEARS

A. T. H. S. and Barrington Play 1st Game; Winner Engages Palatine

The culmination of the basketball season for high school teams in this district will be held at the Waukegan high school March 4, 5, 6, and 7. The district includes seven Class B schools from the northwest conference, Palatine, Antioch, Barrington, Warren, Wauconda, and Lake Zurich; three Chicago schools, which have not been entered on previous years, Lake View, Schurz, and Roosevelt; and two other Class A schools, Highland Park, Waukegan and Libertyville.

The first game will be played Wednesday evening at 7:00, between Antioch and Barrington. The outcome of any game with Antioch this season is open much speculation. In the last encounter with Barrington, Antioch was the victor, and they do not look for much opposition in the first game. Anyone following the Antioch basketball team from season to season has been impressed by the fact that the team always seem to develop a winning complex along about tournament time. They failed to make the grade

First day for filing, February 20, 1931.

Last day for filing, March 17, 1931. Which Election will be opened at 7 o'clock in the morning, and will continue open until 5 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day.

The yarn today is about an adventure I won't soon forget. At th' time it happened I was one of th' crew of th' ship, Flyin' Cloud, bound from Calcutta to Boston. In a cage on deck was a savage tiger bein' shipped to th' zoo in Boston. One mornin' as th' skipper was walkin' th' quarter-deck he saw a shark swimmin' alongside. Orderin' one of th' men to bring th' shark-hook and a piece of salt pork, he also had a tackle rigged to hoist Mr. Shark aboard if he was caught.

Well a'r, th' shark was hooked and hauled up above th' deck in short order. Th' tiger must have smelled th' shark for he let out a roar that scared th' men holdin' th' rope fastened to th' shark. Down came that big fish on top of th' tiger's cage. There was a crash and th' next minute th' tiger leaped out on deck. In just about three seconds, all hands were in th' riggin'.

Before th' tiger could get his bearin' th' shark whacked him with his tail alongside th' head. Then around th' deck th' two of em flopped and scratched, th' tiger yowlin' like a big tom-cat and th' shark clashing in his teeth. Quicker'n a wink th' shark grabbed th' tiger's paw. Wow, what a scratchin' and yowlin' there was then.

When we saw that th' tiger couldn't get away we hopped to th' deck and had him tied up in no time, and then we killed th' shark. After we'd bandaged th' tiger's paw we fixed up his cage and locked him up again. Later, when he was in th' zoo, people came to see th' tiger that had fought with a shark.
